“ Barb enjoyed gardening, music, yoga, swimming, cooking, birding and cats. She grew garlic and gave me some. She could have been a DJ, she was so familiar with various types of music and she enjoyed concerts. She had a good sense of humor. She was a regular attendee at yoga classes and community dinners at Anahata Schoolhouse Yoga Studio. Her cooking from scratch was delicious. I can see her eye roll when I told her about my cooking shortcuts. The first time I met Barb was a few years ago at an Audubon birding event at the Glen. I love the story she told about her cat who followed her into a store to find her! She was a good cat sitter but not too enthusiastic about litter duty.... who is.. So, I'll miss our chats about all these shared interests. I am blessed to have shared a friendship with her. She is with her ancestors and she lives in our hearts.
