“ Coming down in the very early morning hours out of Vermont via Charlemont, Hawley, Savoy, Adams and visiting the graves of my family, it was Davy, young kid from my childhood on Crandall Street, side line cheering force of our pickup neighborhood basketball games, who was there at the cemetery job always with a big wave, took the time always to come over and say hello, old friend of my brother Scotty. We all appreciated his care when our sister Sherry died. You may, or may not know it, but there was great thought to his words. Sail on, neighbor.
