“ I hope these memories bring you joy. My former husband and I moved to Aztec Drive in Wheel Estates back in 1993. We had our son a year later. I remember meeting Ron who lived right across the street. Him and his mom went away and I got to babysit the parrot. He told me to say hello to the bird but he failed to tell me that the bad bird swore. I was in shock. Him and mom laughed when I told them when they returned. I have pictures of Ron and my former husband painting our trailer grey. When I got divorced and my husband left I was so upset that come Christmas morning my son would not have his hot wheels garage put together. I was on the floor Christmas Eve in tears and Ron stayed with me until the garage was put together. Then Christmas morning he came over to play with James. I also remember going to the Aerosmith concert together...that was a fun night. Since I moved and remarried, I would see Ron around town and he always asked about James. I was shocked when I saw this obituary and I hope he is at peace. He will be missed.
